Crystal Palace Overground Festival main stage line-up confirmed

The line-up has been announced for the main outdoor music stage at this year's Crystal Palace Overground Festival at Westow Park on Saturday 29 June.

Joel Bullen + Floodliners + Civil Love + Offbeat South + Breezy Lee + The Hornets + Hallouminati + Metamono

Highlights include Crystal Palace's very own analogue electronic 3-piece band Metamono, up-and-coming female-led 5-piece and PRS For Music Songwriting Award winners Floodliners and 8-piece instrumental funk band The Hornets.

They are complemented by the high octane gypsy/punk/ska/Greek/ragga/jazz mash-up Hallouminati, the soulful tones of Breezy Lee and her band, Jamie Cullen's Big Audition winners Offbeat South, sunshine and melody 4-piece band Civil Love and indie/blues singer/songwriter Joel Bullen.

Festival director Noreen Meehan said: "The Crystal Palace Overground Festival's main music stage line-up is definitely one not to be missed with an incredible diversity of musical talent taking to the stage.

"There are bands from Crystal Palace itself and across south east London – we believe in keeping it local.

"The team is very excited about all of the bands playing and hope they get some time off from general festival organising duties to jump around – at least for a while!"

The Crystal Palace Overground Festival is free to enter and is expected to attract over 6,000 people to Crystal Palace over the course of four days.

Run by a team of festival volunteers, the event is a mix of Upper Norwood trader and venue events and a music festival for all the family to enjoy.

As well as the performers on the outdoor music stage, visitors can spend the day enjoying the various park festival hubs that include performing arts, holistic activities, food tasting demos and a kids' zone.

The Westow Park day runs from 11am to 6pm.

Market stalls will be selling arts, crafts, food and drink while local groups and traders will also have a presence.
